DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's request for reconsideration of the finality of the rejection of the last Office action is persuasive and, therefore, the finality of that action is withdrawn.
2. Claims 1-8 and 14-21 are pending and have been examined.
3. The indicated allowability of claims 1-8 is withdrawn in view of a further review of the claim language and Specification under 35 USC 112 1st Paragraph.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

5. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. Claims 1-8 are directed towards a system that comprises various "modules" performing functions associated with the claimed invention. However, the term module is not defined in the specification, and it cannot be determined from the language of the claims or the Specification what the term "module" encompasses. It cannot be determined whether the term "module" refers to hardware (a terminal); to functions carried out entirely in software; or some combination of the two.

The term module is most commonly used in the art pertinent to the Applicant's Specification to describe a software routine.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

6. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

7. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

The preamble of claim 1 indicates that it is directed towards a system comprising functional modules. The Applicant's Specification fails to define what a "module" represents in this context. However, the Examiner finds that the term "module" is commonly used in the art to refer to a software routine. Therefore, a reasonably broad construction of the claim is that it is directed towards only software. However, the claim does not positively recite any limitation that specifies the software as being embodied in a tangible, computer-readable medium. Therefore, the claim sets forth only functional descriptive language and is non-statutory since this does not fall into one of the classes of invention eligible for the grant of a US patent. Unless embodied in a computer-readable medium the software in and of itself cannot be considered as a computer component, and hence cannot effect a change of state of a processor to produce a useful or tangible result. From 2106.01: Computer-Related Nonstatutory Subject Matter: Descriptive material can be characterized as either “functional descriptive material” or “nonfunctional descriptive material.” In this context, “functional descriptive material” consists of data structures and computer programs which impart functionality when employed as a computer component. (The definition of “data structure” is “a physical or logical relationship among data elements, designed to support specific data manipulation functions.” The New IEEE Standard Dictionary of Electrical and Electronics Terms 308 (5th ed. 1993).) “Nonfunctional descriptive material” includes but is not limited to music, literary works, and a compilation or mere arrangement of data. Both types of “descriptive material” are nonstatutory when claimed as descriptive material per se, 33 F.3d at 1360, 31 USPQ2d at 1759. When functional descriptive material is recorded on some computer-readable medium, it becomes structurally and functionally interrelated to the medium and will be statutory in most cases.

Claims 7-8 are dependent on claim 1 and do not cure its deficiency. Therefore they are rejected on the same basis as that claim.

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claims 14-21 are allowed.
